Limited clarity on the investigation; no material impact so far

Reiterate Rating: BUY | PO: 1,400 TWD | Price: 1,110 TWD

Breaking News

- According to the company's announcement, Unimicron is being investigated by Taoyuan Investigation Bureau. Our supply chain checks and conversation with the company suggest this is on a matter relating to the labeling of products' origin.
- Our supply chain checks and conversation with the company suggest that this does not appear to be related to accounting fraud or insider trading, as has been reported in some news items in the press.
- Based on the limited information we have currently as described above, we do not see a major impact on the company's business/operation at this stage. However, we do anticipate that uncertainty is likely to continue until there is further clarification.

Unimicron under investigation; share price dropped

According to the company's announcement, Taoyuan Investigation Bureau visited the company today to conduct a search/investigation, primarily to examine matters relating to "Offenses Against Agriculture, Industry, and Commerce". The share price of Unimicron went down 5.9% today, vs 4.3% and 1.6% falls in the other two major substrate names NYPCB (Nan Ya Printed Circuit Board) and Kinsus.

More granularities on the exact matter

Our checks with the supply chain and with the company suggest this matter could be related to potential uncertainties associated with the labeling of products' origin. Further, it appears it is neither related to accounting fraud nor insider trading, as has been reported in some news articles.

Not seeing major impact on the business so far

Currently we believe that in this case, based on the information we have at this stage, there would only be a minor impact (if any) to the company's product shipments, echoing the company's statement of "no material impact on financial condition or business operation". For other substrate names, we haven't heard relevant repercussions so far.

Unimicron (UMCRF)

Our PO of NT$1,400 is based on 35x 2H27-1H28E, which is roughly 1x standard deviation above the historical average of 20x since 2017. In our view, the multiple is appropriate as we expect Unimicron earnings to be supported by its high-end technology offerings, where end market demand seems more resilient.

Upside risks are (1) tighter ABF supply, (2) greater PC and regular server demand, and (3) lower competition pressure.

Downside risks are (1) greater ABF expansion from peers, (2) lower ASP content increase at AI server, and (3) bigger drop in the demand of consumer electronic products.
