1Q26 Preview - Momentum Continues into Q1

Datadog heads into earnings with core business momentum, improving checks, and line of sight to 30% growth in Q1 and upward estimate revisions for Q2/FY26. With positioning cautious given the recent pullback, we see an attractive setup.

Key Takeaways

- Q1 setup looks attractive, with underlying momentum, improving checks, and line of sight to ~30% YoY revenue growth in Q1 vs +26% consensus.
- Fundamentals remain strong, as the core business and AI-native customers ex-OpenAI accelerated for a second straight quarter.
- Channel checks improved modestly QoQ, with healthier pipeline trends, stronger GenAI-related activity, and somewhat better large-enterprise demand.
- We expect upside to estimates, with Q2 revenue guide of +23%-24% and an FY26 guide raise to +20%-21% from +18%-20%, ahead of consensus at +20%.
- Positioning looks cautious despite premium valuation with shares down 11% in the last month creating a favorable setup

Attractive Setup Heading Into Q1, With Underlying Momentum Building and Upside to Q2/FY26 Consensus. Datadog heads into Q1 with an attractive setup, supported by clear underlying momentum, modestly improving checks, and the potential for further acceleration to 30%+ revenue growth with upside to Q2 and FY26 consensus. While the stock still trades at a premium multiple, the recent pullback and more cautious positioning create room for a favorable post-print reaction if Datadog delivers as expected. Recent results showed strong revenue growth as the core business and AI-native customers ex-OpenAI accelerated for a second consecutive quarter, while large-customer growth, deeper multi-product adoption, and strong bookings pointed to improving enterprise traction. Against consensus calling for +26% revenue growth in Q1 and +20% in Q2 and FY26, we expect Datadog to deliver ~30% YoY revenue growth in Q1, guide Q2 to +23%-24%, and raise its FY26 guide to +20%-21% from +18%-20%.

Checks Improved Modestly QoQ, With Demand Shifting From “Solid and Stable” to “Stable-to-Improving.” Channel feedback heading into the quarter appears incrementally better than last quarter, supported by a healthier pipeline, broader AI-related activity, and somewhat better large-enterprise demand. Partners are more consistently pointing to GenAI workloads moving from pilot to production, which is beginning to translate into stronger observability demand across logs, APM, infrastructure monitoring, and emerging AI-observability use cases, even if the revenue impact remains uneven by account and timing. Cloud migration remains an important near-term driver, particularly as enterprises modernize to become AI-ready, while platform consolidation and broader multi-product expansion continue to support deal activity. Feedback on deal flow was generally constructive, with some checks highlighting larger and more diverse pipeline opportunities and better cross-sell motion, particularly in security, though the magnitude of near-term upside remains debated. Security commentary also improved sequentially, with more evidence of attach in cloud SIEM, API security, CSPM, and data security, though it still does not appear to be a uniformly reliable growth vector across verticals. Competitive commentary remained broadly favorable, with Datadog seen as benefiting from platform breadth and strong go-to-market execution, while open-source/OTel and specialist vendors were viewed more as niche alternatives than immediate displacement risks.

We Expect ~30% Q1 Revenue Growth, a Better Q2 Guide, and an FY26 Raise.

Against consensus calling for +26% revenue growth in Q1 and +20% in Q2 and FY26, we expect Datadog to deliver ~30% YoY revenue growth in Q1, representing a ~3% beat versus consensus, generally inline with the trailing four-quarter average 3.7%. Management framed the guide as conservative, driven by prudent assumptions on OpenAI and a willingness to continue investing in growth and AI innovation, while revenue ex-OpenAI within the current FY26 guide is expected to grow 20%+. Our analysis suggests ~30% Q1 growth remains plausible even as OpenAI's contribution diminishes, supported by further acceleration in the core business to +25% from +23% in Q4, continued ramp in the broader AI-native cohort including some very large recent customer lands, strong consumption exiting Q1, and higher scans for AI observability in December and January. Building on that, we expect Q2 revenue guide of +23%-24% and an updated FY26 guide of +20%-21% from +18%-20%, ahead of consensus at +20%.

Premium Valuation and More Cautious Positioning Leave Room for a Favorable Reaction.

Datadog trades at ~8.4x EV/NTM Sales and at a 70%+ premium to peers, reflecting stronger sentiment and perceived AI defensibility relative to both peers and broader software. At the same time, valuation has compressed to ~8x EV/NTM Sales from 17x in late 2025 and ~12x at the start of the year, a 50% drop since its late-2025 peak, versus a ~40% decline for software on average over the same period. That derating reflects in large part concerns around potential headwinds from OpenAI diverging spend away from Datadog, though the company still trades at a premium well above the recent average since the start of 2025. Heading into the print, positioning appears somewhat cautious, with the stock down 11% over the trailing one-month period versus the Nasdaq. Over the past two quarters, Datadog averaged -6% T-1M performance, and while each quarter saw a positive T+1D reaction, follow-through was limited as concerns around OpenAI deceleration offset typical +3%-4% revenue beats and core business acceleration. Against expectations for further acceleration to ~30% YoY revenue growth in Q1 and upside to Q2/FY26 consensus, the setup appears supportive of a positive T+1D move and better follow-through beyond the print.

Core Growth Improves as Digital & Cloud Migration Initiatives Return

PRICE TARGET $180.00

Apply a 45x multiple (1.5x growth-adjusted) to our CY28 FCF/share estimate of $4.17 ($1.6 billion FCF, 27% margin), and discount back 1yr. 1.5x FCF growth-adj represents a premium to peer average 1.2x CY27. We believe a premium is warranted given it's the leading share gainer in a large category, its highly efficient business model, and being the most innovative company in the observability space, together translating into durable 25% FCF growth

OVERWEIGHT THESIS

Leading Product in a Growing Market Supports Continued Rapid Growth. Datadog has positioned itself as the leading observability platform for the most modern cloud environments. Strong secular tailwinds towards modern performance monitoring with the re-platforming to the cloud creates an underpenetrated TAM that we estimate at $90+ billion today

BULL CASE

$280.00

60x CY28e FCF/sh of $4.94, discounted back 1yr.

Datadog Becomes The Consolidation Vendor in The Observability Market, While Security and ITSM Expansion Ramps. We assume that Datadog grows total revenue at a ~25% 3-yr revenue CAGR through CY28 to $6.7B while operating margins improve to 27%, yielding $1.9B of FCF (29% margin) or $4.94/share. Applying 60x multiple to CY28 FCF/sh and discounting back 1yr at ~11% WACC yields $280.

BASE CASE

$180.00

45x CY28e FCF/sh of $4.17, discounted back 1yr

Continued Leading Position in Observability Combined with Superior Unit Economics Drive Strong FCF. We assume that Datadog grows total revenue at a ~21% 3-yr revenue CAGR through CY28 to $6B while operating margins improves from 22% in CY25 to 25%, yielding $1.6B of FCF (27% margin) or $4.17/share. Applying 45x multiple to CY28 FCF/sh (1.5x growth-adjusted) and discounting back 1yr at ~11% WACC yields our price target of $180. 1.5x represents a premium to its peer group average of 1.2x.

BEAR CASE

25x CY27e FCF/sh of $3.36, discounted back 1yr.

Intensifying Competition Weighs on Growth and Margins. We assume that Datadog grows total revenue at a ~16% 3-yr revenue CAGR through CY28 to $5.3B while operating margins deteriorates to 23%, yielding $1.3B of FCF (25% margin) or $3.36/share. Applying 25x multiple to CY28 FCF/sh and discounting back 1yr at ~11% WACC yields $87.

STOCK RATINGS

Morgan Stanley uses a relative rating system using terms such as Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated or Underweight (see definitions below). Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold and sell. Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone. In any case, ratings (or research) should not be used or relied upon as investment advice. An investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances (such as the investor's existing holdings) and other considerations.
